

2011 Major League Baseball All-Star FanFest

Confirmed Legends Schedule of Appearances, Autographs, Q&A Sessions and Clinics*
(As of July 9, 2011)

Friday, July 8th

10:00 AM – 12:00 PM

KELLY STINNETT~

Kelly Stinnett was a 14-year Major League catcher from 1994-2007. He played 734 career games with a .234 batting average, 65 home runs and 230 RBI. Stinnett played for the NL West Champion D-backs in 1999, setting career-highs with 14 home runs and 38 RBI, and appeared in four games in the club's Division Series against the Mets.

GREG SWINDELL~

Greg Swindell pitched 17 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1986-2002. He posted 123 career victories with a 3.86 ERA. As a member of the Cleveland Indians in 1988, Swindell recorded a career-high 18 wins, 242.0 innings and 180 strikeouts while hurling 12 complete games, including four shutouts. In 1989, Greg was selected an American League All-Star, and in his only career All-Star performance, he tossed 1.2 innings, allowing two hits with three strikeouts. In 1999, he helped the Arizona Diamondbacks to a National League West title, going 4-0 with a 2.43 ERA over 63 relief appearances. Greg, a reliever for the 2001 World Champion D-backs, compiled a 1.86 ERA in 13 career postseason contests.

12:00 PM – 2:00 PM

JAY BELL~

The shortstop was a two-time All-Star (1993, 1999) in his career and he earned a Gold Glove in 1993, breaking Ozzie Smith's string of 13 consecutive wins at the position. Bell helped lead the Arizona Diamondbacks to the National League West title in 1999, just their second year of existence, by setting career-highs with 132 runs scored, 38 home runs and 112 RBI. In 2001, Bell scored the decisive run on Luis Gonzalez's single against Mariano Rivera in Game 7 of the World Series, lifting the D-backs to the World Championship.

DAMION EASLEY~

Damion Easley played 17 seasons in the Major Leagues as an infielder, spending most of his time at second base. In 1998 with the Detroit Tigers, he represented the American League in the All-Star Game, and posted career-highs with 27 home runs, 100 RBI, 38 doubles and 161 hits. Damion won the Louisville Slugger Silver Slugger Award at second base in the A.L. after hitting .271, and he also led the League with 480 defensive assists. From 1997-2000, Easley ranked among the top five A.L. second basemen in fielding percentage, leading the League with a .990 percentage in 2000.

MIKE FETTERS~

Mike Fetters was a 16-year Major League relief pitcher, spanning 620 games from 1989-2004, posting a career ERA of 3.86 and 100 saves. He assembled a 3.38 ERA and a career-high 32 saves for the Brewers in 1996. Fetters had two stints with the D-backs: in 2002, when the club won the N.L. West title, and again in 2004.

REGGIE SANDERS~

Reggie Sanders played 17 seasons in the Major Leagues between 1991 and 2007. In his rookie year in 1992 with the Cincinnati Reds, he batted .270 with 12 home runs, 26 doubles and 16 stolen bases to finish fourth in the National League Rookie of the Year voting. In 1995, Sanders posted a career-high 36 doubles, 99 RBI and 36 stolen bases (also accomplished in 1999) to go along with a .306 batting average as he was selected to the N.L. All-Star team and finished sixth in N.L. Most Valuable Player voting. Reggie, who recorded 304 career home runs, hit .304 with six runs scored in six games played during the 2001 World Series for the Arizona Diamondbacks. Sanders also appeared in the 2002 Fall Classic with the San Francisco Giants and the 2004 World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

2:00 PM – 4:00 PM

DAMION EASLEY~

Damion Easley played 17 seasons in the Major Leagues as an infielder, spending most of his time at second base. In 1998 with the Detroit Tigers, he represented the American League in the All-Star Game, and posted career-highs with 27 home runs, 100 RBI, 38 doubles and 161 hits. Damion won the Louisville Slugger Silver Slugger Award at second base in the A.L. after hitting .271, and he also led the League with 480 defensive assists. From 1997-2000, Easley ranked among the top five A.L. second basemen in fielding percentage, leading the League with a .990 percentage in 2000.

MIKE FETTERS~

Mike Fetters was a 16-year Major League relief pitcher, spanning 620 games from 1989-2004, posting a career ERA of 3.86 and 100 saves. He assembled a 3.38 ERA and a career-high 32 saves for the Brewers in 1996. Fetters had two stints with the D-backs: in 2002, when the club won the N.L. West title, and again in 2004.

ROLLIE FINGERS[^]

Fingers pitched in the Major Leagues from 1968-1985 and was a key pitcher for Oakland's three straight World Series Championship teams from 1972-74. A 1992 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he was a seven-time All-Star and the 1981 winner of both the American League Most Valuable Player and the AL Cy Young Award after going 6-3 with a 1.04 ERA and 28 saves for the Brewers. Fingers was the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 World Series.

4:00 PM – 6:00 PM

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The All-American Girls Softball League was created in 1943 by Phillip K. Wrigley, who sought to keep baseball active and entertaining during the war. Legendary baseball executive Branch Rickey was a member of the League's board of trustees. Its first games were played on May 30, 1943. Later known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, its operations continued through 1954, featuring more than 600 players in its history. More than one million fans attended the League's games during the 1948 season. The League gained recognition in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, was immortalized on the silver screen in the 1992 film "A League of Their Own" with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis, and remains a great legacy for the game of baseball.

ROLLIE FINGERS[^]

Fingers pitched in the Major Leagues from 1968-1985 and was a key pitcher for Oakland's three straight World Series Championship teams from 1972-74. A 1992 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he was a seven-time All-Star and the 1981 winner of both the American League Most Valuable Player and the AL Cy Young Award after going 6-3 with a 1.04 ERA and 28 saves for the Brewers. Fingers was the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 World Series.

6:00 PM – 8:00 PM

STEVE GARVEY

Steve Garvey was a 10-time National League All-Star during his 19-year Major League career, all of which was spent in the National League West with the Los Angeles Dodgers (1969-82) and the San Diego Padres (1983-87). Garvey was the 1974 National League Most Valuable Player after hitting .312 with 21 home runs and 111 RBI, and he set career-highs with 33 homers and 115 RBI in 1977. He batted .294 in his career with 272 home runs and 1,308 RBI. The first baseman was a four-time Rawlings Gold Glove winner, earning the honors consecutively from 1974-77. The Michigan State University product helped his clubs reach five World Series. He batted .417 in the 1981 Fall Classic as the Dodgers won the crown, and he helped the Padres reach their first World Series in club history in 1984.

FRED LYNN

Fred Lynn had a 17-year Major League career, from 1974-1990, with a .283 batting average, 306 home runs and 1,111 RBI. With the Red Sox in 1975, Lynn became the first player in baseball history to win Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year honors in the same season, batting .331 with 21 home runs and 105 RBI. A nine-time American League All-Star and a four-time Gold Glove winner, Lynn hit what remains the only grand slam in the history of the All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in 1983 – the signature shot in the AL's 13-3 win, which snapped its 11-year losing streak.

Saturday, July 9th

9:30 AM – 12:00 PM

DAVID DELLUCCI~

David Dellucci played 13 seasons as an outfielder in the Major Leagues from 1997-2009. As a rookie with the Arizona Diamondbacks in 1998, he led the National League with 12 triples in 124 games played. The Baton Rouge, Louisiana native hit .394 in 1999 before a wrist injury ended his season after just 64 games. Dellucci batted .313 in 17 career postseason games, and he helped contribute to the D-backs' World Series win over the New York Yankees in 2001. In nearly 1,100 games played, David collected 101 home runs, 141 doubles and 431 runs scored.

ERUBIEL DURAZO~

Erubiel Durazo was a first baseman and designated hitter in the Major Leagues for seven seasons, playing for the Arizona Diamondbacks (1999-2002) and the Oakland Athletics (2003-2005). The native of Mexico collected a .281 batting average, 94 home runs, 330 RBI and a .381 on-base percentage in his career. He was a part of four postseason clubs in his career, including the first three playoff appearances in D-backs' franchise history. After hitting .269 with 12 homers and 38 RBI in the regular season, Durazo went 4-for-11 (.364) with an RBI and three walks for the victorious D-backs in the 2001 World Series. He set career highs with 22 home runs and 88 RBI with the A's in 2004, to go along with a .321 batting average.

ROLLIE FINGERS^

Fingers pitched in the Major Leagues from 1968-1985 and was a key pitcher for Oakland's three straight World Series Championship teams from 1972-74. A 1992 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he was a seven-time All-Star and the 1981 winner of both the American League Most Valuable Player and the AL Cy Young Award after going 6-3 with a 1.04 ERA and 28 saves for the Brewers. Fingers was the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 World Series.

LUIS GONZALEZ~

Gonzalez, who currently serves as a Special Assistant to the President and CEO for the Diamondbacks, spent 19 seasons in the Majors with the Houston Astros (1990-95, 97), the Chicago Cubs (1995-96), the Detroit Tigers (1998), the D-backs (1999-2006), the Los Angeles Dodgers (2007) and the Florida Marlins (2008). Gonzalez hit .325 and recorded career-highs in 2001 with 57 home runs and 142 RBI as he led the D-backs to the franchise's first World Series Championship in just their fourth season of existence. The Tampa, Florida native collected the indelible game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth inning of Game Seven against the New York Yankees to clinch the 2001 Fall Classic for the D-backs. The University of South Alabama product compiled a .283 batting average, 2,591 hits, 354 home runs and 1,439 RBI in 2,591 career games, and is one of 17 players in Major League history to collect at least 2,500 hits, 500 doubles, 350 home runs and 1,000 RBI. Gonzalez also retired in 2008 as the D-backs all-time leader in games played (1,194), hits (1,337), doubles (310), home runs (224), walks (650), runs (780), RBI (774), at-bats (4,488), total bases (2,373), slugging percentage (.529) and on-base percentage (.391).

ARMANDO REYNOSO~

Armando Reynoso pitched in the Major Leagues for 12 seasons for the Atlanta Braves (1991-92), the Colorado Rockies (1993-96), the New York Mets (1997-98), and the Arizona Diamondbacks (1999-2002). He went 68-62 in his Major League career with a 4.74 ERA. In the inaugural season in Rockies' history in 1993, the Mexican-born right-hander led the club in wins with a 12-11 record for the 67-95 club. In 1995, he helped the Rockies make the postseason for the time in club history in 1995. He went 10-6 with a 4.37 ERA for the National League West Champion D-backs in 1999 and later made nine starts during the 2001 regular season for the World Series Champion D-backs.

12:00 PM – 2:00 PM

JAY BELL~

The shortstop was a two-time All-Star (1993, 1999) in his career and he earned a Gold Glove in 1993, breaking Ozzie Smith's string of 13 consecutive wins at the position. Bell helped lead the Arizona Diamondbacks to the National League West title in 1999, just their second year of existence, by setting career-highs with 132 runs scored, 38 home runs and 112 RBI. In 2001, Bell scored the decisive run on Luis Gonzalez's single against Mariano Rivera in Game 7 of the World Series, lifting the D-backs to the World Championship.

ORLANDO CEPEDA^

Orlando Cepeda was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1999. He hit .297 with 379 home runs and 1,365 RBI in his career, from 1958-74. The Puerto Rico native was named to 10 All-Star teams and played in nine Midsummer Classics. "The Baby Bull" was named the 1958 National League Rookie of the Year and the 1967 NL Most Valuable Player after hitting .325 with 25 home runs and 111 RBI for the World Series Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

DAVID DELLUCCI~

David Dellucci played 13 seasons as an outfielder in the Major Leagues from 1997-2009. As a rookie with the Arizona Diamondbacks in 1998, he led the National League with 12 triples in 124 games played. The Baton Rouge, Louisiana native hit .394 in 1999 before a wrist injury ended his season after just 64 games. Dellucci batted .313 in 17 career postseason games, and he helped contribute to the D-backs' World Series win over the New York Yankees in 2001. In nearly 1,100 games played, David collected 101 home runs, 141 doubles and 431 runs scored.

FERGUSON JENKINS^

Ferguson Jenkins played in the Major Leagues from 1965-1983. He was a 1991 inductee into the National Baseball Hall of Fame. He went 284-226 (557) with a 3.34 ERA in his career. He won the 1971 National League Cy Young Award, leading the NL in innings, wins and complete games. An NL All-Star in 1967, 1971 and 1972, he was a 20-game winner seven times. His 2,038 career strikeouts are the most in Cubs history.

2:00 PM – 4:00 PM

ORLANDO CEPEDA^

Orlando Cepeda was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1999. He hit .297 with 379 home runs and 1,365 RBI in his career, from 1958-74. The Puerto Rico native was named to 10 All-Star teams and played in nine Midsummer Classics. "The Baby Bull" was named the 1958 National League Rookie of the Year and the 1967 NL Most Valuable Player after hitting .325 with 25 home runs and 111 RBI for the World Series Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

JENNIE FINCH

Jennie Finch is an American softball pitcher who played for the USA National Softball Team and the Chicago Bandits. The California native was an All-American at the University of Arizona, guiding the team to the 2001 Women's College World Series title and being named the Most Outstanding Player. Jennie then competed in the 2004 Athens Summer Olympics, in which her team won the Gold Medal. She was also an Olympic Silver medalist (2008), a two-time Pan American Gold Medalist (2003, 2007), a World Cup Champion (2006, 2007) and a two-time World Champion (2002 & 2006). She has been a correspondent for "This Week In Baseball" and has modeled for Sports Illustrated. In 2010, Finch retired from softball to focus on her family. She is married to pitcher Casey Daigle, who was in the Major Leagues in 2004 and 2006 with the Arizona Diamondbacks and in 2010 with the Houston Astros.

FERGUSON JENKINS[^]

Ferguson Jenkins played in the Major Leagues from 1965-1983. He was a 1991 inductee into the National Baseball Hall of Fame. He went 284-226 (557) with a 3.34 ERA in his career. He won the 1971 National League Cy Young Award, leading the NL in innings, wins and complete games. An NL All-Star in 1967, 1971 and 1972, he was a 20-game winner seven times. His 2,038 career strikeouts are the most in Cubs history.

FRED LYNN

Fred Lynn had a 17-year Major League career, from 1974-1990, with a .283 batting average, 306 home runs and 1,111 RBI. With the Red Sox in 1975, Lynn became the first player in baseball history to win Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year honors in the same season, batting .331 with 21 home runs and 105 RBI. A nine-time American League All-Star and a four-time Gold Glove winner, Lynn hit what remains the only grand slam in the history of the All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in 1983 – the signature shot in the AL's 13-3 win, which snapped its 11-year losing streak.

4:00 PM – 7:00 PM

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The All-American Girls Softball League was created in 1943 by Phillip K. Wrigley, who sought to keep baseball active and entertaining during the war. Legendary baseball executive Branch Rickey was a member of the League's board of trustees. Its first games were played on May 30, 1943. Later known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, its operations continued through 1954, featuring more than 600 players in its history. More than one million fans attended the League's games during the 1948 season. The League gained recognition in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, was immortalized on the silver screen in the 1992 film "A League of Their Own" with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis, and remains a great legacy for the game of baseball.

STEVE FINLEY~

Steve Finley played 19 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1989-2007. As a center fielder, Finley was a two-time All-Star and five-time Rawlings Gold Glove Award winner. Steve was a career .271 hitter and he totaled 2,548 hits, 1,167 RBI and 304 home runs. In 1996, Finley finished second in the National League with 126 runs scored and 45 doubles. The 45 doubles set a Padres franchise record at the time and his 84 extra-base hits that year remain a single-season franchise-best. In 2001, Finley had a phenomenal postseason for the Arizona Diamondbacks en route to their World Series Championship. Steve hit .365 with nine RBI over 16 postseason games, including a .368 mark in the Fall Classic. In 2003, at 38-years-old, Finley became the oldest Major League player to lead the league in triples with 10.

FRED LYNN

Fred Lynn had a 17-year Major League career, from 1974-1990, with a .283 batting average, 306 home runs and 1,111 RBI. With the Red Sox in 1975, Lynn became the first player in baseball history to win Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year honors in the same season, batting .331 with 21 home runs and 105 RBI. A nine-time American League All-Star and a four-time Gold Glove winner, Lynn hit what remains the only grand slam in the history of the All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in 1983 – the signature shot in the AL's 13-3 win, which snapped its 11-year losing streak.

REGGIE SANDERS~

Reggie Sanders played 17 seasons in the Major Leagues between 1991 and 2007. In his rookie year in 1992 with the Cincinnati Reds, he batted .270 with 12 home runs, 26 doubles and 16 stolen bases to finish fourth in the National League Rookie of the Year voting. In 1995, Sanders posted a career-high 36 doubles, 99 RBI and 36 stolen bases (also accomplished in 1999) to go along with a .306 batting average as he was selected to the N.L. All-Star team and finished sixth in N.L. Most Valuable Player voting. Reggie, who recorded 304 career home runs, hit .304 with six runs scored in six games played during the 2001 World Series for the Arizona Diamondbacks. Sanders also appeared in the 2002 Fall Classic with the San Francisco Giants and the 2004 World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sunday, July 10th

10:00 AM – 12:00 PM

LUIS APARICIO^

A 1984 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, Aparicio became the first Venezuelan-born player to reach the halls of Cooperstown. A 10-time American League All-Star and a nine-time Gold Glove winner, he led the AL in stolen bases in nine seasons. He finished second in AL Most Valuable Player voting in 1959 for the "Go Go Sox." In his 18-year Major League career, he never played a single inning at a position other than shortstop.

LOU BROCK^

A 1985 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame and a six-time National League All-Star, Brock led the NL in stolen bases eight times and in runs twice and was a member of two World Series Championship teams with the Cardinals (1964 and 1967). He held baseball's record for most career stolen bases (938) until being passed by Rickey Henderson. Brock hit a combined .391 (34-87) in the Fall Classic with four home runs and 13 RBI in 21 games, and he stole seven bases in both the '67 and '68 World Series.

TODD MCFARLANE

Todd McFarlane is a multifaceted artist and entrepreneur. He is best known for his comic book work with Marvel, DC Comics and his own comic creation, Spawn. In addition to his artistic pursuits, McFarlane is an avid baseball fan and collector. Over the years, McFarlane has collected numerous baseballs, including home run balls from Sammy Sosa and Mark McGwire's 1998 race, and Barry Bonds' record breaking 73rd home run ball. The McFarlane Collection, which has been featured in stadiums and special events all over the country, has helped to raise money for ALS and Lou Gehrig's disease. To date, over two million people have seen the McFarlane Collection.

GREG SWINDELL~

Greg Swindell pitched 17 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1986-2002. He posted 123 career victories with a 3.86 ERA. As a member of the Cleveland Indians in 1988, Swindell recorded a career-high 18 wins, 242.0 innings and 180 strikeouts while hurling 12 complete games, including four shutouts. In 1989, Greg was selected an American League All-Star, and in his only career All-Star performance, he tossed 1.2 innings, allowing two hits with three strikeouts. In 1999, he helped the Arizona Diamondbacks to a National League West title, going 4-0 with a 2.43 ERA over 63 relief appearances. Greg, a reliever for the 2001 World Champion D-backs, compiled a 1.86 ERA in 13 career postseason contests.

EARL WEAVER^

Hall of Famer Earl Weaver was a manager for the Baltimore Orioles from 1968-1986. Under his leadership, Weaver led the Orioles to three consecutive American League Championships from 1969-1971, the 1970 World Championship and a fourth American League Pennant in 1979. In 17 seasons, Weaver compiled a managerial record of 1,480-1,060 (.583). Earl, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1996, recorded at least 100 wins in five different seasons and only had one losing season during his career (1986).

12:00 PM – 2:00 PM

GAYLORD PERRY[^]

Gaylord Perry, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1991, pitched for 22 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1962-1983. Perry, a five-time All Star, is one of five pitchers in Major League history to win the Cy Young Award in each League, capturing the award in the American League in 1972 and in the National League in 1978. In addition, he recorded five seasons of at least 20 wins en route to 314 career victories. In 1972 with the Cleveland Indians, he led the A.L. in wins, posting a 24-16 record, with an ERA of 1.92. In 1978, Perry went 21-6 with a 2.73 ERA for the San Diego Padres, leading the N.L. in wins. Gaylord and his brother, Jim (1970), are the only pair of brothers in Major League history to each win the Cy Young Award.

GREG SWINDELL[~]

Greg Swindell pitched 17 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1986-2002. He posted 123 career victories with a 3.86 ERA. As a member of the Cleveland Indians in 1988, Swindell recorded a career-high 18 wins, 242.0 innings and 180 strikeouts while hurling 12 complete games, including four shutouts. In 1989, Greg was selected an American League All-Star, and in his only career All-Star performance, he tossed 1.2 innings, allowing two hits with three strikeouts. In 1999, he helped the Arizona Diamondbacks to a National League West title, going 4-0 with a 2.43 ERA over 63 relief appearances. Greg, a reliever for the 2001 World Champion D-backs, compiled a 1.86 ERA in 13 career postseason contests.

EARL WEAVER[^]

Hall of Famer Earl Weaver was a manager for the Baltimore Orioles from 1968-1986. Under his leadership, Weaver led the Orioles to three consecutive American League Championships from 1969-1971, the 1970 World Championship and a fourth American League Pennant in 1979. In 17 seasons, Weaver compiled a managerial record of 1,480-1,060 (.583). Earl, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1996, recorded at least 100 wins in five different seasons and only had one losing season during his career (1986).

2:00 PM – 4:00 PM

FERGUSON JENKINS[^]

Ferguson Jenkins played in the Major Leagues from 1965-1983. He was a 1991 inductee into the National Baseball Hall of Fame. He went 284-226 (557) with a 3.34 ERA in his career. He won the 1971 National League Cy Young Award, leading the NL in innings, wins and complete games. An NL All-Star in 1967, 1971 and 1972, he was a 20-game winner seven times. His 2,038 career strikeouts are the most in Cubs history.

GAYLORD PERRY[^]

Gaylord Perry, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1991, pitched for 22 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1962-1983. Perry, a five-time All Star, is one of five pitchers in Major League history to win the Cy Young Award in each League, capturing the award in the American League in 1972 and in the National League in 1978. In addition, he recorded five seasons of at least 20 wins en route to 314 career victories. In 1972 with the Cleveland Indians, he led the A.L. in wins, posting a 24-16 record, with an ERA of 1.92. In 1978, Perry went 21-6 with a 2.73 ERA for the San Diego Padres, leading the N.L. in wins. Gaylord and his brother, Jim (1970), are the only pair of brothers in Major League history to each win the Cy Young Award.

SHARON ROBINSON

Sharon Robinson, the daughter of baseball legend Jackie Robinson, is the author of many works of fiction and nonfiction. She has written several books about her father, including Jackie's Nine: Jackie Robinson's Values to Live By and Promises to Keep: How Jackie Robinson Changed America. Robinson also serves as an educational consultant for Major League Baseball where she oversees school and community-based educational programs. Prior to joining Major League Baseball, Robinson had a 20-year career as a nurse-midwife and educator. Sharon, who is the Vice Chairman of the Jackie Robinson Foundation, has taught at several prestigious universities, including Yale, Columbia and Georgetown.

KELLY STINNETT~

Kelly Stinnett was a 14-year Major League catcher from 1994-2007. He played 734 career games with a .234 batting average, 65 home runs and 230 RBI. Stinnett played for the NL West Champion D-backs in 1999, setting career-highs with 14 home runs and 38 RBI, and appeared in four games in the club's Division Series against the Mets.

TONY WOMACK~

Tony Womack played 13 seasons in the Majors as an infielder/outfielder from 1993-2006. Tony, known for his speed, recorded 363 career stolen bases and led the National League in three straight seasons from 1997-99. Womack also collected a career-best 14 triples in 2000 which ranked first in the N.L. In his rookie season in 1997, Womack was selected to the N.L. All-Star Team. Womack, who played a key role throughout the entire 2001 postseason for the Arizona Diamondbacks, recorded the game-tying double off New York Yankees closer Mariano Rivera in the bottom of the ninth inning in Game 7 of the 2001 Fall Classic, and he later scored the game-winning and Series-clinching run on a single by Luis Gonzalez.

4:00 PM – 7:00 PM

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The All-American Girls Softball League was created in 1943 by Phillip K. Wrigley, who sought to keep baseball active and entertaining during the war. Legendary baseball executive Branch Rickey was a member of the League's board of trustees. Its first games were played on May 30, 1943. Later known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, its operations continued through 1954, featuring more than 600 players in its history. More than one million fans attended the League's games during the 1948 season. The League gained recognition in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, was immortalized on the silver screen in the 1992 film "A League of Their Own" with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis, and remains a great legacy for the game of baseball.

LUIS APARICIO[^]

A 1984 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, Aparicio became the first Venezuelan-born player to reach the halls of Cooperstown. A 10-time American League All-Star and a nine-time Gold Glove winner, he led the AL in stolen bases in nine seasons. He finished second in AL Most Valuable Player voting in 1959 for the “Go Go Sox.” In his 18-year Major League career, he never played a single inning at a position other than shortstop.

JUAN MARICHAL[^]

Juan Marichal pitched in the Major Leagues from 1960–1975. A 1983 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he won 243 games and lost only 142 in his career with a 2.89 ERA, fanning 2,303 batters. “The Dominican Dandy” was a six-time 20-game winner for the Giants. He spun a no-hitter against Houston in 1963. A nine-time All-Star, he pitched in eight All-Star Games, hurling 14-consecutive scoreless frames over his final seven All-Star Game outings. Marichal was the Most Valuable Player in the 1965 All-Star Game after facing the minimum nine batters over his three-inning start.

KELLY STINNETT[~]

Kelly Stinnett was a 14-year Major League catcher from 1994-2007. He played 734 career games with a .234 batting average, 65 home runs and 230 RBI. Stinnett played for the NL West Champion D-backs in 1999, setting career-highs with 14 home runs and 38 RBI, and appeared in four games in the club’s Division Series against the Mets.

Monday, July 11th

10:00 AM – 12:00 PM

LOU BROCK[^]

A 1985 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame and a six-time National League All-Star, Brock led the NL in stolen bases eight times and in runs twice and was a member of two World Series Championship teams with the Cardinals (1964 and 1967). He held baseball's record for most career stolen bases (938) until being passed by Rickey Henderson. Brock hit a combined .391 (34-87) in the Fall Classic with four home runs and 13 RBI in 21 games, and he stole seven bases in both the '67 and '68 World Series.

ROLLIE FINGERS[^]

Fingers pitched in the Major Leagues from 1968-1985 and was a key pitcher for Oakland's three straight World Series Championship teams from 1972-74. A 1992 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he was a seven-time All-Star and the 1981 winner of both the American League Most Valuable Player and the AL Cy Young Award after going 6-3 with a 1.04 ERA and 28 saves for the Brewers. Fingers was the Most Valuable Player of the 1974 World Series.

NOMAR GARCIAPARRA

Nomar Garciaparra was a six-time All-Star during his 14-year Major League career, playing for the Boston Red Sox (1996-2004), the Chicago Cubs (2004-05), the Los Angeles Dodgers (2006-08), and the Oakland Athletics (2009). The shortstop won back-to-back American League batting championships in 1999 (.357) and 2000 (.372), becoming the first right-handed hitter to win consecutive batting crowns since Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio in 1939-1940. Garciaparra was the 1997 American League Rookie of the Year with an A.L.-best 209-hit season, which included a .306 batting average, 30 home runs, 98 RBI, 22 stolen bases and 122 runs scored. The California native finished second in 1998 A.L. Most Valuable Player balloting with a .323 average, 35 homers and 122 RBI, the first of five overall seasons in which he finished in the top 10 in MVP voting. The Georgia Tech product played in five postseasons during his career, posting a .321 average, seven home runs and 24 RBI in 32 postseason games. He is now a part of ESPN's coverage of Major League Baseball.

GAYLORD PERRY[^]

Gaylord Perry, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1991, pitched for 22 seasons in the Major Leagues from 1962-1983. Perry, a five-time All Star, is one of five pitchers in Major League history to win the Cy Young Award in each League, capturing the award in the American League in 1972 and in the National League in 1978. In addition, he recorded five seasons of at least 20 wins en route to 314 career victories. In 1972 with the Cleveland Indians, he led the A.L. in wins, posting a 24-16 record, with an ERA of 1.92. In 1978, Perry went 21-6 with a 2.73 ERA for the San Diego Padres, leading the N.L. in wins. Gaylord and his brother, Jim (1970), are the only pair of brothers in Major League history to each win the Cy Young Award.

EARL WEAVER[^]

Hall of Famer Earl Weaver was a manager for the Baltimore Orioles from 1968-1986. Under his leadership, Weaver led the Orioles to three consecutive American League Championships from 1969-1971, the 1970 World Championship and a fourth American League Pennant in 1979. In 17 seasons, Weaver compiled a managerial record of 1,480-1,060 (.583). Earl, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1996, recorded at least 100 wins in five different seasons and only had one losing season during his career (1986).

12:00 PM – 2:00 PM

EARL WEAVER[^]

Hall of Famer Earl Weaver was a manager for the Baltimore Orioles from 1968-1986. Under his leadership, Weaver led the Orioles to three consecutive American League Championships from 1969-1971, the 1970 World Championship and a fourth American League Pennant in 1979. In 17 seasons, Weaver compiled a managerial record of 1,480-1,060 (.583). Earl, who was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1996, recorded at least 100 wins in five different seasons and only had one losing season during his career (1986).

MATT WILLIAMS~

Matt Williams played 17 years in the Major Leagues, from 1987-2003 and reached the World Series with three different clubs – the Giants in 1989, the Indians in 1997 and the World Champion D-backs in 2001. The third baseman tied for the club lead with seven RBI in Arizona’s triumph in the 2001 World Series. Matt was a five-time All-Star and a four-time Gold Glover. In 1999, he batted .303 with 35 homers and 142 RBI for the NL West Champion D-backs. Matt, who is also a minority owner of the D-backs and has served as Special Assistant to the President and CEO, is currently the club’s third base coach.

2:00 PM – 4:00 PM

LUIS APARICIO^

A 1984 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, Aparicio became the first Venezuelan-born player to reach the halls of Cooperstown. A 10-time American League All-Star and a nine-time Gold Glove winner, he led the AL in stolen bases in nine seasons. He finished second in AL Most Valuable Player voting in 1959 for the “Go Go Sox.” In his 18-year Major League career, he never played a single inning at a position other than shortstop.

JUAN MARICHAL^

Juan Marichal pitched in the Major Leagues from 1960–1975. A 1983 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he won 243 games and lost only 142 in his career with a 2.89 ERA, fanning 2,303 batters. “The Dominican Dandy” was a six-time 20-game winner for the Giants. He spun a no-hitter against Houston in 1963. A nine-time All-Star, he pitched in eight All-Star Games, hurling 14-consecutive scoreless frames over his final seven All-Star Game outings. Marichal was the Most Valuable Player in the 1965 All-Star Game after facing the minimum nine batters over his three-inning start.

SHARON ROBINSON

Sharon Robinson, the daughter of baseball legend Jackie Robinson, is the author of many works of fiction and nonfiction. She has written several books about her father, including Jackie's Nine: Jackie Robinson's Values to Live By and Promises to Keep: How Jackie Robinson Changed America. Robinson also serves as an educational consultant for Major League Baseball where she oversees school and community-based educational programs. Prior to joining Major League Baseball, Robinson had a 20-year career as a nurse-midwife and educator. Sharon, who is the Vice Chairman of the Jackie Robinson Foundation, has taught at several prestigious universities, including Yale, Columbia and Georgetown.

MATT WILLIAMS~

Matt Williams played 17 years in the Major Leagues, from 1987-2003 and reached the World Series with three different clubs – the Giants in 1989, the Indians in 1997 and the World Champion D-backs in 2001. The third baseman tied for the club lead with seven RBI in Arizona's triumph in the 2001 World Series. Matt was a five-time All-Star and a four-time Gold Glover. In 1999, he batted .303 with 35 homers and 142 RBI for the NL West Champion D-backs. Matt, who is also a minority owner of the D-backs and has served as Special Assistant to the President and CEO, is currently the club's third base coach.

4:00 PM – 6:00 PM

LUIS APARICIO^

A 1984 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, Aparicio became the first Venezuelan-born player to reach the halls of Cooperstown. A 10-time American League All-Star and a nine-time Gold Glove winner, he led the AL in stolen bases in nine seasons. He finished second in AL Most Valuable Player voting in 1959 for the "Go Go Sox." In his 18-year Major League career, he never played a single inning at a position other than shortstop.

TONY GWYNN[^]

Tony Gwynn, a 2007 Hall of Fame inductee, spent his entire 20-year career (1982-2001) as right fielder of the San Diego Padres. Nicknamed “Mr. Padre,” Gwynn was known for being one of the best hitters in the game’s history. Tony struck out just 434 times in 9,288 career at-bats, and never batted below .309 in any full season. The eight-time N.L. batting champion and a 15-time N.L. All-Star retired in 2001 with 3,141 career hits and a lifetime batting average of .338. Gwynn, who compiled a .306 career postseason batting average, had his uniform number 19 retired by the Padres in 2004.

JUAN MARICHAL[^]

Juan Marichal pitched in the Major Leagues from 1960–1975. A 1983 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he won 243 games and lost only 142 in his career with a 2.89 ERA, fanning 2,303 batters. “The Dominican Dandy” was a six-time 20-game winner for the Giants. He spun a no-hitter against Houston in 1963. A nine-time All-Star, he pitched in eight All-Star Games, hurling 14-consecutive scoreless frames over his final seven All-Star Game outings. Marichal was the Most Valuable Player in the 1965 All-Star Game after facing the minimum nine batters over his three-inning start.

6:00 PM – 8:00 PM

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The All-American Girls Softball League was created in 1943 by Phillip K. Wrigley, who sought to keep baseball active and entertaining during the war. Legendary baseball executive Branch Rickey was a member of the League’s board of trustees. Its first games were played on May 30, 1943. Later known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, its operations continued through 1954, featuring more than 600 players in its history. More than one million fans attended the League’s games during the 1948 season. The League gained recognition in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, was immortalized on the silver screen in the 1992 film “A League of Their Own” with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis, and remains a great legacy for the game of baseball.

ORLANDO CEPEDA^

Orlando Cepeda was inducted into the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1999. He hit .297 with 379 home runs and 1,365 RBI in his career, from 1958-74. The Puerto Rico native was named to 10 All-Star teams and played in nine Midsummer Classics. “The Baby Bull” was named the 1958 National League Rookie of the Year and the 1967 NL Most Valuable Player after hitting .325 with 25 home runs and 111 RBI for the World Series Champion St. Louis Cardinals.

JUAN MARICHAL^

Juan Marichal pitched in the Major Leagues from 1960–1975. A 1983 inductee to the National Baseball Hall of Fame, he won 243 games and lost only 142 in his career with a 2.89 ERA, fanning 2,303 batters. “The Dominican Dandy” was a six-time 20-game winner for the Giants. He spun a no-hitter against Houston in 1963. A nine-time All-Star, he pitched in eight All-Star Games, hurling 14-consecutive scoreless frames over his final seven All-Star Game outings. Marichal was the Most Valuable Player in the 1965 All-Star Game after facing the minimum nine batters over his three-inning start.

Tuesday, July 12th

10:00 AM – 12:00 PM

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

The All-American Girls Softball League was created in 1943 by Phillip K. Wrigley, who sought to keep baseball active and entertaining during the war. Legendary baseball executive Branch Rickey was a member of the League’s board of trustees. Its first games were played on May 30, 1943. Later known as the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, its operations continued through 1954, featuring more than 600 players in its history. More than one million fans attended the League’s games during the 1948 season. The League gained recognition in the National Baseball Hall of Fame in 1988, was immortalized on the silver screen in the 1992 film “A League of Their Own” with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis, and remains a great legacy for the game of baseball.

MIKE FETTERS~

Mike Fetters was a 16-year Major League relief pitcher, spanning 620 games from 1989-2004, posting a career ERA of 3.86 and 100 saves. He assembled a 3.38 ERA and a career-high 32 saves for the Brewers in 1996. Fetters had two stints with the D-backs: in 2002, when the club won the N.L. West title, and again in 2004.

MATT WILLIAMS~

Matt Williams played 17 years in the Major Leagues, from 1987-2003 and reached the World Series with three different clubs – the Giants in 1989, the Indians in 1997 and the World Champion D-backs in 2001. The third baseman tied for the club lead with seven RBI in Arizona’s triumph in the 2001 World Series. Matt was a five-time All-Star and a four-time Gold Glover. In 1999, he batted .303 with 35 homers and 142 RBI for the NL West Champion D-backs. Matt, who is also a minority owner of the D-backs and has served as Special Assistant to the President and CEO, is currently the club’s third base coach.

12:00 PM – 2:00 PM

JAY BELL~

The shortstop was a two-time All-Star (1993, 1999) in his career and he earned a Gold Glove in 1993, breaking Ozzie Smith’s string of 13 consecutive wins at the position. Bell helped lead the Arizona Diamondbacks to the National League West title in 1999, just their second year of existence, by setting career-highs with 132 runs scored, 38 home runs and 112 RBI. In 2001, Bell scored the decisive run on Luis Gonzalez’s single against Mariano Rivera in Game 7 of the World Series, lifting the D-backs to the World Championship.

JUNIOR SPIVEY~

Junior Spivey spent five seasons as a second baseman in the Major Leagues from 2001-2005. Spivey became the fifth rookie since 1954 to record a pair of five-hit games. He was also the only player on the Arizona Diamondbacks to accomplish this feat during the 2001 season. In 2002, he led the D-backs in batting (.301), runs scored (103), hits (162) and doubles (34). Junior also posted career-bests with 16 home runs and 78 RBI while earning a spot on the National League All-Star team.

2:00 PM – 5:00 PM

DAVID DELLUCCI~

David Dellucci played 13 seasons as an outfielder in the Major Leagues from 1997-2009. As a rookie with the Arizona Diamondbacks in 1998, he led the National League with 12 triples in 124 games played. The Baton Rouge, Louisiana native hit .394 in 1999 before a wrist injury ended his season after just 64 games. Dellucci batted .313 in 17 career postseason games, and he helped contribute to the D-backs' World Series win over the New York Yankees in 2001. In nearly 1,100 games played, David collected 101 home runs, 141 doubles and 431 runs scored.

ARMANDO REYNOSO~

Armando Reynoso pitched in the Major Leagues for 12 seasons for the Atlanta Braves (1991-92), the Colorado Rockies (1993-96), the New York Mets (1997-98), and the Arizona Diamondbacks (1999-2002). He went 68-62 in his Major League career with a 4.74 ERA. In the inaugural season in Rockies' history in 1993, the Mexican-born right-hander led the club in wins with a 12-11 record for the 67-95 club. In 1995, he helped the Rockies make the postseason for the time in club history in 1995. He went 10-6 with a 4.37 ERA for the National League West Champion D-backs in 1999 and later made nine starts during the 2001 regular season for the World Series Champion D-backs.

JUNIOR SPIVEY~

Junior Spivey spent five seasons as a second baseman in the Major Leagues from 2001-2005. Spivey became the fifth rookie since 1954 to record a pair of five-hit games. He was also the only player on the Arizona Diamondbacks to accomplish this feat during the 2001 season. In 2002, he led the D-backs in batting (.301), runs scored (103), hits (162) and doubles (34). Junior also posted career-bests with 16 home runs and 78 RBI while earning a spot on the National League All-Star team.

*Subject to Change

^Hall of Famer

~D-backs Legend